HISTORY

The heritage of Special Operations Weathermen traces back to the American effort against the Japanese in the China-Burma-India theater. Also during World War II, the weathermen took part in operations at Normandy Beach, in France, the Netherlands and Yugoslavia. The 10th Weather Squadron was reactivated in Thailand, to conduct combat weather operations in Southeast Asia. Special Operations Weathermen have directly participated in the majority of modern special operations contingency operations since Operation Urgent Fury, 1983. Recent successes include operations Just Cause, Desert Shield/Desert Storm, Uphold Democracy, operations in Bosnia, counter-narcotics operations in South America, and Operation Enduring Freedom in Afghanistan.
